INTRODUCTION

Where am I?

You are in the Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center. The Center is part of the Philadelphia Department of Human Services, Division of Juvenile Justice Services. We are located at 91 N 48th Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19139.

You will stay here until your legal case is completed or you are released by the Court. However, the PJJSC staff is not directly involved with your case. Their job is to make you feel as safe as possible and provide you with food, clothing and a place to live.

This handbook, along with the admission and orientation process will help you to understand what is happening to you while you are here.

Why am I in the Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center?

Most of you are here because you have been accused of breaking the law. A judge has decided that you will stay at the Center until your case is heard. Once a court date is set, you must attend. There are no exceptions.

The PJJSC is not for children under the age of 13. Any 12-year old child that must be held in the Center will be kept in a separate area from the remaining residents. Most 12-year old children are sent to Community Based Detention Shelters (CBDS). Occasionally, a judge will order youth, older than 12, to be held in a Community Based Detention Shelter as well.

While you are here, it is important that you understand what is happening. Together, we can make your stay at the Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center as pleasant as possible. We are here to help you.

How long do I have to stay at the Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center?

Your length of stay will depend upon your legal case.

COURT

Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center Intake Interview

On the day following your arrest and admission to the PJJSC, you will attend an informal interview. During this interview, the charges against you will be reviewed. Based on this information, the probation officer will either adjust the case or refer it to the court. If the case is referred to the court, the interviewer will decide whether you will be released or held at the Center to await your court hearing (Court-In or Court-Out).

Detention Hearing

If you are held at the PJJSC following your Intake Interview, you will receive a Detention Hearing in the Court Room. A Judge or Master will conduct your hearing and set your court date. The Judge/Master will also make whatever recommendations are necessary to prepare you for the court hearing. Some of these options include:

- Releasing you to the custody of your parent/guardian
- Requesting a mental health assessment
- Assigning you an attorney or a public defender
- Placing you on In-Home Detention
- Assigning you to the Electronic Monitoring Program
- Placing you in a Community Based Detention Shelter (CBDS)
- Placing you on Pre-Hearing Intensive Supervision (PHIS)
- Keeping you at the PJJSC

Adjudicatory Hearing

If your case has to be decided or adjudicated in court, you will have a lawyer. The state has a prosecutor. After hearing both sides of your case, the judge will make a decision. You must go to court while in the PJJSC. You cannot refuse to go to court.

THE ADMISSION PROCESS

What happens when I first arrive at the Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center?

Pat Search

When you first arrive at the PJJSC, you will enter the Admission's area. Admission staff will ask you to remove your shoes and socks. They will briefly search you for illegal items while the police are still with you. If you have any drugs or weapons, the police will take you back to the police station for further charges.

Initial Health Screening

Admission staff will ask you many questions about your health and safety. They will ask if you have any injuries, if you have used any drugs in the last 24-hours, and if you are taking any medication. If you refuse this initial health screening, you will be isolated until it is completed. If you are not healthy, medical staff will see you, or you will be taken to the hospital to make sure you are safe.

Second Search and Recording of Possessions

Admission staff will ask you to remove everything from your pockets including money, jewelry, cell phones, and beepers. They will collect all of your personal belongings (jewelry, money, etc.) and make a list of your possessions. Your things will be placed in an envelope and kept in a safe and secure place. You will be given a receipt from the admissions worker. You must sign this receipt. Make sure everything that has been taken away from you is on the list. Your personal items will be returned when you are released.

Initial Paperwork

During the admissions orientation process, the admissions worker will ask you questions to make sure the information on your paperwork are correct. Be honest. Giving the wrong information could cause you to stay in the PJJSC longer.

When all of your paperwork is completed, you will be asked to sign your name and write your birth date.

Prison Rape Elimination Act, (PREA) documents will also be given out during this time. Staff will explain your right to be free from all forms of sexual misconduct during your stay at PJJSC.

Armbands

An armband will be placed on your arm with your name, birth date, and PJJSC number on it. You cannot remove your armband. It must remain on your arm until you are released. The armband is used as your official identification.

Initial Telephone Call

You will be allowed to call one person during the admission process. This call should be used to contact your parent or guardian. The Youth Detention Counselor will ask you the name and the telephone number of the person you wish to call. You may choose not to place a call.

The Counselor will place the call, identify him/herself, and state the reason for the call. If the call is to your parent or guardian, the Counselor will ask your parent or guardian any information that you were unable to provide. You will then be allowed to talk, privately, on the phone.

After you complete your call, you will be asked to sign the telephone call form to prove that you did make a call during admission.

PREA procedure handbook will be given to residents at this time.

What is processing?

Processing is a continuation of the admission process. The initial health and safety assessment will be completed.

Showering

You will be asked to go into the shower area. Center staff (male staff if you are a male and female staff if you are a female) will ask you to remove all of your clothing. The staff will observe you for any bruises, scars, or illegal items.

Admissions Department

The Admissions Department has an observation room. If the counselors are concerned, they may place you in the observation room. This allows them to watch you and is for your safety.

Clothes

All of your clothing will be taken and placed in a bag for storage.

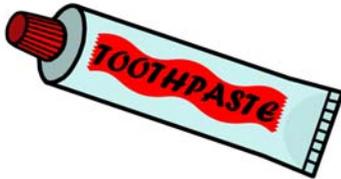

The bag will contain your name, the date you arrived, and your PJJSC number. Make sure you get a receipt for your clothing.

You are not allowed to wear your own clothes while you are at the Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center. You will wear PJJSC uniforms.

Personal Items

You will be given a towel, washcloth and toothbrush. You will also be given sheets, a pillowcase, and a blanket.

Remember to take all of the items that have been given to you. Your parent or guardian will not be allowed to bring you clothing while you are at the Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center.

Medical Screening

Before the admission process is complete, you will see a Nurse. Your medical screening will be conducted in a private area. You do not have to discuss any of your personal medical problems with anyone other than medical staff.

The Nurse will ask you questions about your general health, any current illnesses, and any medication you are taking. It is important that you tell the medical staff about any medical conditions you have, or any treatment you are currently receiving. Never be afraid or embarrassed to discuss your health problems with the nurse. We want you to be healthy and will help however we can.

UNIT LIFE

A Youth Detention Counselor and Counselor Supervisor work in every unit and pod. They are there to make sure you are safe and healthy. They are interested in your attitude, behavior, work habits, health habits, and relationships with other residents.

Male Residents

Male residents will be taken from the admissions area to the Orientation Unit. They are units HA, HB & HC.

After orientation, males are assigned to one of six units. Assignments to unit are based on age, size, and maturity level. The six male units are:

Male Pod: HG, HH and HI

Male Pod: HJ, HK and HL

Special Needs

The PJJSC will assign the residents to the units accordingly to their needs. The PJJSC staff will pay close attention to the residents with a medical condition or history of problem behavior. Males with special needs may be placed on Orientation or Special Needs units.

If a resident is having serious problems, they may be placed on 24-hour observation. Residents will receive the same orientation and privileges as the other residents in the facility, including regular schooling.

Female Residents

Female residents are assigned to 3 units for orientation and ongoing unit assignments:

Pod: HD, HE and HF

Female residents with special needs may be placed on one of the units or on a special needs unit.

Room Assignment

A counselor will explain the rules and assign you to a room. Do not be afraid to ask questions if you need help or do not understand something.

Most rooms have single beds. However, there are times when you may have a roommate. You are responsible for keeping your room clean, making your bed, and keeping your belongings in order. You are also responsible for all items given to you by the Juvenile Justice Services Center.

General Rules

All residents are expected to:

- ✓ Respect the counselors.
- ✓ Learn and follow all rules.
- ✓ Respect the other residents.
- ✓ Keep your room orderly and clean.

Always ask questions if you need help or advice.

You will be provided three (3) well-balanced meals each day and a snack in the evening.

Food Restrictions

Be sure to tell medical staff if you have any food allergies. The medical staff will complete a special diet form and send it to the dietary department. The Philadelphia Juvenile Justices Services Center understands that some people have food restrictions for religious reasons. Tell your counselor if you have any concerns about any of the food being served. No pork products are served at PJJSC.

Mail

While in the Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center, you will be able to receive and send mail. The staff will provide you with paper, pencils, and envelopes. All envelopes should be properly addressed with the person's full name, address, and zip code.

BEHAVIORAL MANAGEMENT PROGRAM (BMS)

What is it?

The PJJSC uses a Behavioral Management System (BMS) of rewards and consequences. The goal of the BMS program is to help you achieve different levels of responsibility and to teach you how to be successful while you are staying at the Youth Study Center.

How does it work?

All PJJSC residents take part in the Behavioral Management System. The following tips will help you during your stay:

- ✗ Refer to your counselor by Mr./Mrs./Ms.
- ✗ Show respect for yourself and to the staff, and other residents.
- ✗ Do not possess any contraband. (Contraband is anything not given to you by the Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center). Drugs, alcohol, matches, and weapons of any kind, obscene materials, or anything that could be used in an escape are called contraband.)
- ✗ Participate in all program activities.
- ✗ Follow all Philadelphia Juvenile Justice Services Center's rules.
- ✗ Take care of all items given to you at the PJJSC. (These include your clothing, your room, and your school materials.)
- ✗ Maintain your personal hygiene. Wash regularly; brush your teeth, etc.
- ✗ Be respectful when you are speaking. Do not use loud, abusive, or offensive language.
- ✗ Do not engage in sexual misconduct.

You will earn points each day for following the rules and participating in daily activities at the Center. Your good behavior and cooperative attitude will help you learn about yourself and how to get along with others. This will help you whether you are in the Center or living elsewhere.

Rewards

Below are some of the privileges you can earn with good behavior in the Behavioral Management System.

Telephone Calls

You are allowed to make your first telephone call during admissions. During your orientation with the social worker, you will be able to make an additional call.

During the unit orientation process, you will identify five (5) people you may call while you are at the Center. These five (5) people will be the only people you will be allowed to call.

The names of the five (5) people you wish to call will be written on the Resident Phone Sheet Log. The sheet will be part of your Behavioral Management System Point sheet. If you are transferred to another unit, this sheet will go with you.

You will also be able to call your attorney, probation officer, SNAP worker, and DHS worker. They are not included on your list of five (5) people.

You will only be allowed to make calls on:

-  Alternate days Monday-Friday 4:00 p.m. – 8:30 p.m.
-  Saturday 11:00 a.m. – 8:30 p.m.
-  Sunday 11:00 a.m. – 8:30 p.m.

If you are fined through the Behavioral Management System Program, you will not be allowed to make a call until your next scheduled telephone call day.

A staff member will dial all phone calls and will identify the person you are calling. The staff will then identify himself or herself as a PJJSC employee and give the telephone to you. Staff will stay in the immediate area while you are on the phone.

All PJJSC residents have telephone access to outside support services related to sexual abuse. Advocate phone numbers are available on each unit. Staff will allow residents to speak with crisis advocates in as confidential a manner as possible.

COMMUNITY BASED DETENTION SHELTERS

What are they?

Children, 12-years old and younger are usually placed in a Community Based Detention Shelter (CBDS). Older children can also be placed in a CBDS if the court recommends it and the shelter accepts the child.

The Community Based Detention Shelter (CBDS) Program has group homes and foster homes all over the city and surrounding area. Children live in CBDS while they wait for their court date.

How do I get referred and when?

After the court has referred you to a Community Based Detention Shelter Program, a Social Worker from the CBDS office will come to speak with you. After the interview, the Social Worker will refer you to a suitable CBDS. (A judge can also assign you to a specific CBDS). You will go to the CBDS immediately, unless there are no slots available. In this case, you will wait at the Youth Study Center until a slot becomes available.

School

While in the Community Based Detention Shelter (CBDS) you will attend school. You will receive credit for your schoolwork when you return to your regular school.

Court

The CBDS staff is responsible for transporting you to court and providing progress reports on how well you are doing.

Rules

You will have rules to follow while you live at the Community Based Detention Shelter. Any attempt to runaway from the CBDS will result in escape charges being filed against you.

Visitors

Your parents will be allowed to visit you while you live at the Community Based Detention Shelter.

A staff person will take your complaint report and give it to the counselor supervisor. The counselor supervisor will respond in writing within 24 hours. The Director (s) of Residential Services will receive a copy of your report if it concerns the point system.

The Residential Director(s) will review and investigate other types of complaints and will respond in writing within 24 hours (except weekends and holidays) with a decision. The Residential Director(s) receives a copy of all complaint reports.
