Summary Information

Repository	Fairmount Archives
Title	Neighborhood Park Maps, Plans and Drawings Collection
Date [bulk]	Bulk, 1922-1983
Date [inclusive]	1860-2011
Extent	20.0 Linear feet
Language	English
Abstract	Included in this collection are maps, plans, and drawings of some of the locations operated by the Philadelphia Parks and Recreation Department. It primarily contains documentation on smaller neighborhood parks and squares. In addition to operating these locations, the Philadelphia Parks and Recreation Department also cares for street trees throughout the city, and a small number of records related to prominent streets (particularly Roosevelt Boulevard) are also included in this collection.

Preferred Citation note

[Description and date of item], FP.2012.002, Neighborhood Park Maps, Plans and Drawings Collection, Fairmount Park Historic Resource Archives.

Scope and Contents Note

Of the 70+ parks within the Fairmount Park system, there is a disparate amount of material available in this collection. Major watershed parks (such as Fairmount Park and Wissahickon Park) are not covered in this collection, nor are significant independent parks such as FDR Park and Bartram's Garden. This collection is concentrated on neighborhood parks, particularly smaller parks and squares.

Some parks are undocumented, or have only one or two related items, while other parks have a wealth of material available. The collection is particularly strong in material related to Awbury Park. Burholme Park, Fernhill Park, Franklin Square, Eastwick Park, Hunting Park, Pastorius Park, Penn Treaty Park, and Washington Square. Specific areas of note include Awbury Arboretum, the Burholme Mansion, Logan House, and the Rittenhouse Square Guard House. Also included are documents relating to Roosevelt Boulevard and the Vine Street Expressway, as they are under the jurisdiction of the Fairmount Park Commission.

Within the collection are variety of materials, roughly 99% of which are maps, drawings, or plans. There is a very limited number of correspondence directly relating to materials which have been arranged accordingly to preserve their relationship. The documents are largely printed on paper, mylar or linen, and range from pencil sketches to blueprints and bluelines. Size varies from legal-sized documents to large, oversized items.

Arrangement Note

This collection has been arranged into ten series, which divide the collection alphabetically by park or group of parks within the Fairmount Park system. These series have been further subdivided into files, continuing the alphabetical order. Parks which are particularly well-documented have their own folder or folders within a series, which may slightly affect alphabetical groupings. Additionally, certain parks are commonly paired with nearby park neighbors. In these cases- Delaware Avenue area parks, Fluehr Park and Eden Hall, Harpers Hollow and Kemble Park, and Wakefield Park and Wister Woods- priority has been given to their relationships over alphabetical order.
