Control by a socially and economically disadvantaged minority, female or disabled person shall not be deemed to exist if a non-minority, non-female, or non-disabled person is disproportionately responsible for the operation of the business or if the business is subject to any formal or informal restrictions which limit the customary discretion of the socially and economically disadvantaged minority, female or disabled owners.

Control shall be exemplified by possession of the requisite capital, knowledge and expertise, including any appropriate licensure, to operate the particular business.
