Our Children - Our Future

Healthy Start of North Philadelphia is part of a national program to reduce infant mortality in target communities throughout the country.

Healthy Start seeks to improve the health of infants (up to age two) and their families through education, support and clinical services.

Why Healthy Start? Because a community is only as strong as its smallest member.

Our Goals

- Reduce infant mortality.
- Improve the health of families.
- Connect families with health and social services.
- Create linkages between community programs and clinic-based services.
- Build unity among community groups, health providers, local government and neighborhood residents.
- Increase awareness about infant mortality and its prevention.

Our Community

At the heart of Healthy Start is the North Philadelphia Alliance — a partnership of consumers, residents, community leaders and social service and clinical providers. Alliance members work together to give families a healthy start in life.

In partnership with the Philadelphia Department of Public Health, the Alliance is a vital link between the community and Healthy Start services. To learn more, call the Alliance at (215) 685-2458.
