What features do you particularly like or dislike about each model?

Team	Like	Dislike
Amaze Design		Don't think the reflecting pool or tower of steel are really effective
Davis Buckley	Good use of floor plan and census documents. I think the threshold and Jefferson wall concepts are effective in confronting contradictions and tensions of slavery issue.
EwingCole		Don't think the "Rings of Sound" will relate the store effectively. Also, too much going on; too confusing
Howard+Revis	Great use of sculptures to represent real individuals and possible relationships
Kelly/Maiello	Use of staircase to represent house	Use of supposed portrait of Hercules and use of LED screens

What features do you particularly like or dislike about each model?

Team	Like	Dislike
Amaze Design		I do not see anything in reference to freedom and slavery.
Davis Buckley	I love this model; it gives a respectable display of slavery.
EwingCole		I do not see anything in reference to freedom and slavery.
Howard+Revis	I like the struggle in the model.	I just don't like the design.
Kelly/Maiello		I do not see anything in reference to freedom and slavery.

Additional comments: All the models on display from Kelly/Maiello, EwingCole, Amaze Design showed to my eye absolutely nothing in reference to freedom and slavery. Howard+Revis model was adequately done. I love the design by Davis Buckley the most because it shows how the slaves were accounted for. Davis Buckley model displays the truth that America wants to ignore.

Team	Like	Dislike
Amaze Design	I like the reflecting pool.	It's not really a meditative place and it doesn't really speak to all of the themes well.
Davis Buckley	I like it because it's simple, open, and "low" tech.	I don't think it clearly follows the outlined themes and there isn't enough interpretation. I think people wouldn't "get" it.
EwingCole	Innovative idea – not practical	Ugly. Too busy... not a pleasant place
Howard+Revis	Beautiful and simple, yet it has interpretation and follows the guidelines. I love how the floor plan is laid out.	A little top heavy on the condemning of slavery (which it should be) but not placing this into time and space – the historical context
Kelly/Maiello	Clearly outlined the different themes and was able to concentrate on all the people living in the house and what was going on there.	I don't like the overall "look" but I'm afraid the interpretation using high tech equipment in the outside is extremely unpractical and it would constantly be broken. Better if themes interpreted clearly and artistically.

EwingCole	Granite and glass walls giving detailed information is a good idea.	Not enough visually stunning devices used to capture the imagination of children
Howard+Revis	The sculptures are magnificent and present a stunning visual presentation.
Kelly/Maiello	Commemorative plaques and biographical information about enslaved Africans	Not enough detail; too open

Howard+Revis		No President's house
Kelly/Maiello	Original architecture blend; tells all sides of story and decisions and findings

Additional comments: We need to learn the use and function of this house. The 9 slaves are part of the story and not the whole story. The labels about Hercules and Oney Judge, etc. are enough. I like the variety and scope of experiences available in Kelly/Maiello plan.

Additional comments: It astounds me that African Americans want to continue the victimization issue. This was a time when women were not considered an entity. So much good – with regard to an infant government – was being accomplished here, with world-wide ramifications. That is what should be celebrated, not a continuation of blame. Many of our grandparents came as indentured servants, yet they worked, educated their families and did something with their lives. The current African-Americans should do the same.

Team	Like	Dislike
Amaze Design		Sacred grove and reflecting pool are overused elements in memorials.
Davis Buckley	Openness, movement of figures	Not enough historical content; over life-size figures too imposing
EwingCole	Love the idea of grants for future research and community voices	Too many structural supports breaking up the space
Howard+Revis	Intellectual content is appropriately complex.	Relief sculptures are hideous.
Kelly/Maiello	Architectural design features fit site better than the Liberty Bell pavilion.	Brick walls are too large and imposing as designed.

Additional comments: Put the design team from Kelly/Maiello together with the interpretive content team from Howard+Revis, add in the idea of grants for new research suggested by EwingCole, and you'll have a winning combination.

Additional comments: This entire effort is a major disappointment and a huge waste of money. It is a significant opportunity that is lost – i.e., Philadelphia was the first home of all three branches of the federal government. Slavery is a subplot, not the major theme. Slavery was perpetuated in the Constitution – why not feature this in the National Constitution Center? Women were not enfranchised – why isn't this sad fact equally as important as slavery?

How well does each model commemorate the lives of all the people who inhabited the President's House?

Team	Exceptionally well	Well	Adequately	Not well at all
Amaze Design				X
Davis Buckley		X
EwingCole				X
Howard+Revis				X
Kelly/Maiello				X

What features do you particularly like or dislike about each model?

Team	Like	Dislike
Amaze Design
Davis Buckley	Seems like the only one to actually focus on the core design requirements
EwingCole
Howard+Revis
Kelly/Maiello

Additional comments: None of the designs except the one by Davis Buckley seem to really address the issues at hand. Most merely offer trivial information about Hercules and Ona Judge Staines, transforming them into token figures, which frankly I find offensive. They also do not truly address the idea of hypocrisy imbedded in the foundation of our society; instead they gloss over the idea – might as well not bring it up at all then. The design by Davis Buckley is the only that I feel truly has the intentions of the 5 cultural values described in the design requirement.
