I think that a water rate hike is quite unfair; there are senior citizens on a fixed income, who use the same amount of water each month, but are now going to endure another chunk of their income to pay for a utility that really should be free.

My mother is the caregiver for my grandmother. They are both on a fixed income.

I believe that there are other ways and means to receive revenue for the City of Philadelphia, like lower the salaries of the higher ups who have no personal knowledge of struggling to pay utility bills or any bill for that matter.

I am a City of Philadelphia employee; I have not had a raise in 11 years and I sometimes assist my loved ones in paying bills.

Please, find some other way to collect revenue for this fine city; don't do it off of backs of the senior citizens and lower paid workers.

Thank You!
