Greetings:

Surely with such a large property far from the development pressures of Center City, and the resources of ingenuity, it should be possible to spare this charming little gardener's cottage at the Friends Hospital, without endangering the health of anyone. How many nineteenth-century buildings have been destroyed here without good cause? Surely this destruction could be avoided in a number of ways, some of which might involve finding a "healthful" use for the building.

Thank you for your attention.

Sincerely, Susan Babbitt, 19107

I oppose the demolition of the Langdon House ,on the grounds of Friends Hospital.

Langdon House is a national landmark first ,and there is ample ground on the property to erect a new building without destroying it or hiding it from view.

Thank you for your time
