

City of Philadelphia employee vaccine rates

This document lists City employee vaccine rates by departments as of September 13, 2022, the last date that rates were reported to the Philadelphia Department of Public Health.

The following data were compiled by combining employee-submitted vaccine records with other vaccine records that the Health Department maintains and are being reported out in an aggregate fashion. The percentages reported below should also be understood as minimums as they have been developed using data on vaccine administrations that took place in Philadelphia. If City employees were vaccinated in another county or state, it will not be represented in these data at this time.
