Creating Safer Communities

What Are We Doing?

In September 2018, Philadelphia Mayor Kenney declared gun violence as a public health crisis and issued a call to action to develop a comprehensive strategy. Over the next 100 days, the Mayor and senior leaders from the Administration conducted a series of focus groups, stakeholder meetings, and community listening sessions throughout the city.

The result was a comprehensive strategy aimed at preventing and reducing the high rates of gun violence. The Philadelphia Roadmap to Safer Communities takes a public health approach that uses research and data to better understand the problem of gun violence. This allows us to develop initiatives that address the underlying factors that contribute to the violence in our communities.

We are working to create safer communities through four key goals:

Connected & Thriving Youth, Young Adults, & Families

Making sure young people at the highest risk of violence and their families are connected to needed services and support.

Coordinated City Services & Planning

Improving how well City services and planning efforts related to violence prevention are coordinated.

Strong Community Engagement & Partnerships

Strengthening our engagement in communities impacted by violence to better assist and partner with local efforts to prevent gun violence.

Safer & Healthier Neighborhoods

Creating safer and healthier neighborhoods so that people can thrive in the communities where they live, work, and play.

What Can You Do?

We encourage you to use this guide to connect those in need to resources in our community and to raise awareness about the services that are available.
